An Obtuse Man.
She was a stylish young lady, about eighteen years old, and to accommodate a friend she took the baby for an airing. She was wheeling it up and down the walk, when an oldish man, very deaf, came along and inquired for a certain person supposed to live on that street. She nearly yelled her head off trying to answer him, and he looked around, caught sight of the baby and said:
"Nice child, that. I suppose you feel proud of him?"
"It isn't mine," she yelled at him.
"Boy, eh! Well, he looks just like you."
"It isn't mine," she yelled again, but he nodded his head, and continued:
"Twice, eh! Where's the other one?"
She started off with the cab, but he followed and asked:
"Did it die of colic?"
Despairing of making him understand by words of mouth, she pointed to the baby, at herself, and then shook her head.
"Yes—yes, I see—other twin in the house. Their father is fond of them, of course."
The turned the cab, and hurried the other way, but he followed and asked:
"Do they kick around much at nights?"
"I tell you 'taint mine," she shouted, looking very red in the face.
"I think you're wrong there!" he answered. "Children brought up on the bottle are apt to pine and die."

The Toddygraph.
The latest reported invention of Edison is called the toddygraph. While Edison was imbibing a mild nip in the saloon adjoining a brilliant idea flashed through his fertile brain, and before he left the place he had invented an instrument that is likely to revolutionize the entire saloon business. It is a small machine so constructed that when a person who has just been partaking of some spirituous beverage breathes into it the action of his breath upon a peculiarly prepared substance—also an invention of Mr. Edison—made to revolve slowly by means of a small crank, makes such an impression that by again applying the lips and turning the crank the other way the effects of the drink can be reproduced as many times as desired, no matter how great a length of time may have elapsed. A man provided with one of the instruments could prepare himself with cocktails for a long journey, simply for the price of one drink. Edison christened it the "toddygraph." Of course the saloons will fight against it bitterly, and it must inevitably destroy the business of ninety-nine out of one hundred of them. A person can mix his drinks just to suit himself, and then stock his toddygraph with a supply of different beverages sufficient to last him a life time.

At a late funeral the undertaker arranged for the husband and mother-in-law to ride in the same carriage. "Must I ride with that broken-hearted man," said the bride with that awful woman? "I think you will have to," answered the undertaker. "Well if I must I must, said the stricken man, but to ride with her destroys all my pleasure on this occasion."

The sun is not so near the earth now by about three million miles as he was on the 1st of January, but he strikes more from the shoulder, as it were.—Indianapolis Journal.

Grant and Jeff. Davis are the hideous nightmares that trouble the nocturnal repose of the man who writes editorial articles for the Vicksburg Herald.—Vicksburg Commercial.

They had been engaged for a long time, and one evening were reading together. "Look, love," he exclaimed, "only fifteen dollars for a suit of clothes!" "Is it a wedding suit?" she asked, looking naively at her lover. "Oh, no," he answered, "it is a business suit." "Well, I meant business," she replied.

Reward of Merit.
The U. S. Government has given not only to Dr. Price's Corn Baking Powder, but to his Special Flavoring Extracts, the preference, and large quantities are shipped to its military posts.

A woman in Fairfield, Missouri, has a growth of natural hair eight feet and one inch long, and has refused, it is said, $2000 for it.

She was plump and beautiful, and he was wildly fond of her; she hated him, but, woman like, she strove to catch him. He was a flea.

Why the Indians Fight.
Nevada Enterprise.
Oregon, Nevada and Idaho are just now more or less agitated over the Indian war. A good many lives have already been sacrificed, a vast amount of property has been jeopardized, the peace of the frontier has been destroyed for the year, and the hopes of hundreds of poor families—those most deserving of sympathy and protection—have been rudely blasted. The Indians who have created this state of affairs will be pursued and killed, of course; there is nothing else to do with an Indian when he takes to the war path. At the same time, it is a cruel and shameful war so far as this government is concerned, and one which would have been impossible had simple and honest means been taken to prevent it. The English never have wars with their Indians. Brigham Young planted a colony of rough and selfish men in the heart of the Indian country, but his colony never had any difficulty with the savages. On our part, however, the whole vast region from the Atlantic to the Pacific has been crimsoned with blood.

In nothing do our people show so much that they have no right to claim for themselves peace and prosperity as in the course which they have pursued toward the Indians. It has been full of treachery and cruelty. The evil and its remedy have been plain to frontiersmen for two score years, yet the authorities have repeated the same senseless practices year after year. If a man like Hub Parker of Carson had been sent to the Banocks last February, with authority to act as he pleased toward that tribe, there would have been no war. He would have furnished the Indians food and blankets; he would have made little presents where needed; if there had been a few bad men in the tribe, he would have impressed upon the rest the necessity of not being led astray; at rifle practice he would have excelled them all; he would have led them on their longest march and when the spring opened he would have had the whole tribe at work. The result would have been that the Banocks would now be the most faithful and peaceful tribe on the continent. The same might have been done with the Nez Percés last year. But the truth is, the savages were not half clothed or fed, and they suffered until starvation stared them in the face, and finally, in desperation, they took to the war path.

MISCELLANEOUS.
Jenkins' Annihilator.
The Great Southern Remedy for RHEUMATISM, GOUT & NEURALGIA.
Those terrible enemies of human happiness, Rheumatism, Gout and Neuralgia, have indeed found their master in Jenkins' Annihilator. We have the testimony of men of the highest standing in Louisiana and other States, that after suffering indescribable pains for years, from which they sought relief in vain by visiting the Hot and Warm Springs of Arkansas and Virginia, and by using dozens of remedies more or less highly praised, when, in fact, hope had almost died out, they have found relief from pain by the use of the Annihilator, and by continuing it for a short time, have been perfectly cured. The Annihilator is a preparation purely vegetable, agreeable to the taste, and may be taken without fear of any injurious results by the delicate as well as the robust in constitution.
Price $1.00 per bottle. For sale by all Druggists. Ask your Druggist for circular containing certificates, or send to
